Dear Colleagues,

We are delighted to invite you to attend the XVIIth ISPCAN International Congress which will be held in Hong Kong, China from 7th to 10th September 2008. The Congress is being organized by the International Society for Prevention of Child Abuse and Neglect (ISPCAN) in collaboration with Against Child Abuse (ACA), Hong Kong.

Children around the world face different forms of maltreatment: some unique to their locations and many more that transcend cultures and nations. ISPCAN congresses provide a unique opportunity for professionals all over the world to meet, discuss their concerns, learn from each other and support each other. Apart from stopping and preventing abuse and neglect, the theme of the XVIIth ISPCAN Congress hopes to stimulate participants to move the world "Towards a caring and non-violent community" emphasizing "a child’s perspective" along the way.

The scientific program of the Congress will cater for colleagues ranging from those who just recently joined the field to those looking for refinements in professional practices. The many concurrent sessions will offer participants new advances and opportunities to present innovative approaches to the subject and share well-tried evidence-based best practices. We invite all colleagues to submit abstracts at the Congress website: www.ispcan.org/congress2008. Abstract submission deadline is 15 February 2008.

Hong Kong is a vibrant city where the East meets the West. Many will be curious to observe firsthand what changes have taken place since the handover of sovereignty to China some ten years ago. Others may take this chance to explore the orient. The Congress social program will ensure that visitors have opportunities to enjoy our Chinese cultural heritage while revitalizing old or building new friendships.

We look forward to welcoming you to Hong Kong and to what will prove to be an unforgettable event. Please plan to submit an abstract and register for the Congress at www.ispcan.org/congress2008.

Yours sincerely,

Dr. Patricia Ip, FHKCPaed

Against Child Abuse (ACA), Hong Kong, China

Against Child Abuse (Hong Kong) was founded in the International Year of the Child with a concern for abused and neglected children. In the past two and half decades or so, the agency shoulders the role of a child advocate and renders a variety of remedial and prevention services including hotline, investigation, casework, groupwork and public education services.

The agency strives for a child perspective, a non-punitive family approach and helps to promote collective responsibility in child’s holistic growth and development. With the extension of the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child, the agency also performs the role of monitoring its implementation and actualizing of the “best interest of the child” notion.

With a multidisciplinary collaborative approach, the agency works actively with different disciplines via intervention and service provision, policy and practice sharing, certificate courses on child protection and advocacy. The agency also emphasizes innovative community empowerment and participatory programs such as Healthy Start Home Visiting Programs, Good Mother Networking Program, Child Safety Ambassadors Program, Child Councilors Program, Zero Tolerance of Violence: Move Beyond Corporal Punishment and district prevention programs such as WTS Child Safe and Child-Friendly Community.

Against Child Abuse conducts various surveys, the latest one relating to the Cyber world and child pornography, producing training manuals and training the trainers. It has jointly organized the 5th Asian Congress on Child Abuse and Neglect with ISPCAN and the local Social Welfare Department in 1999, and assisted in child protection training in Singapore, China, Taiwan, and most recently in Macau with the establishment of the Against Child Abuse (Macau) in 2006.

Dr. David Finkelhor (USA)

Dr. David Finkelhor is the Director of the Crimes against Children Research Center, Co-Director of the Family Research Laboratory and Professor of Sociology at the University of New Hampshire. He has been studying the problems of child victimization, child maltreatment and family violence since 1977.

He is well known for his conceptual and empirical work on the problem of child sexual abuse, reflected in publications such as Sourcebook on Child Sexual Abuse (Sage, 1986) and Nursery Crimes (Sage, 1988). He has also written about child homicide, missing and abducted children, children exposed to domestic and peer violence and other forms of family violence. In his recent work, he has tried to unify and integrate knowledge about all the diverse forms of child victimization in a field he has termed Developmental Victimology.

He is editor and author of 11 books and over 150 journal articles and book chapters. He has received grants from the National Institute of Mental Health, the National Center on Child Abuse and Neglect, the US Department of Justice, and a variety of other sources. In 1994, he was given the Distinguished Child Abuse Professional Award by the American Professional Society on the Abuse of Children and in 2004 he was given the Significant Achievement Award from the Association for the Treatment of Sexual Abusers.

Presentation Topic: Lessons from the Decline in Child Maltreatment in the USA

Various forms of child maltreatment and child victimization have declined in the United States as much as 30-60% from 1993 until 2006, including sexual abuse, physical abuse, sexual assault, child victim homicide, aggravated assault, robbery, and property crime. At the same time, other child welfare indicators have also improved during the same period, including teen pregnancy, teen suicide, and children living in poverty. This talk will evaluate a wide variety of possible explanations for these changes. Multiple factors probably contributed. In particular, economic prosperity, increasing agents of social intervention and improved prevention and intervention strategies including increased use of psychiatric drugs all have features to recommend them as possible explanations. The talk will review evidence for similar improvements from other countries, as well.

It may be too early to draw conclusive implications, but the experience in the United States raises many important issues for child abuse and neglect professionals, among them: 1) how the field uses and interprets trend information; 2) how amenable to reduction and eradication child maltreatment actually is; and 3) what domains of social, political and economic intervention are most likely to yield enduring solutions.

Prof. Michael Freeman (UK)

Professor Freeman has been a chair professor at the University College, University of London since 1984. He is the founding editor of International Journal of Children’s Rights and is considered as a guru in children’s rights in the legal field. His interest on children’s rights began in the early 1970s, for his active role in a social campaign called STOP in 1973, calling for a halt of corporal punishment in UK schools. He also opposed such punishment at home and advanced the concept of “reasonable chastisement”.

His major contribution could be said as introducing an interdisciplinary field of child law, not only as a sub branch of family law but firmly anchoring it as core issue in children’s rights, childcare policy, child abuse, criminal justice, employment, delinquency and war torn regions. In particular, in recent years, his writings are centered on what constitutes “the best interests of the child” and how to reflect child’s perspective in law. He is an eloquent and articulate speaker. One piece of evidence is that he was awarded the best teacher award in 2003. His recent books include Children’s Health and Children’s Rights (2006), A Commentary on the UN Convention, A Commentary on the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child: Article 3, and The Best Interests of the Child (2007).

Presentation Topic: Can We Eliminate Child Abuse If We Allow Children To Be Corporally Punished?

This presentation will examine the contours of child abuse, and where corporal chastisement of children fits. It will examine defences of punishment (including religious foundations), rhetoric of those who defend the practice and the (unintended) sexual association. Solutions including abolishing the defence of lawful chastisement, now adopted by nearly 20 countries, and half-way houses, such as the recent English ‘solution’, will be examined. Reference will be made to the many notorious cases where abuse is the result of punishment gone wrong. The presentation will endeavour to demonstrate the impossibility of drawing a clear line between abuse and punishment. It will conclude by reasserting freedom from punishment to be a child’s human right.
Dr. Cindy Kiro (New Zealand)

Dr. Cindy Kiro was appointed Commissioner for Children in New Zealand on 1 September 2003 for five years. Dr. Kiro has a PhD in Social Policy and has worked mainly in the area of public health and advocacy for children and young people. She has worked as a social worker, researcher and manager. Advocating for children and advancing the interests and rights of children and young people, ensuring they are treated with respect, dignity and fairness, is the main focus of the work of the Children’s Commissioner. Key issues such as stopping violence against children, child poverty and promoting the rights of children and young people are an important focus of the Commissioner’s work. Dr. Kiro continues to work to bring together a cohesive and effective children’s movement in New Zealand, recognizing the contribution of Government, non-government organizations and community organizations, Iwi, Maori and Pasifika organizations, young people’s networks and government agencies to addressing key problems like child poverty and violence against children.

Presentation Topic: Children’s’ Voices: the Role of Children’s Commissioners in Advocating for Children

Children’s Commissioners (or Ombudsmen) have increased in number since Norway established theirs in 1976 and New Zealand in 1989. Since then a number of European countries have gone on to establish such an institution, as a means of ensuring an effective voice for children in their country. Federal countries often have state or province based positions. There are differences between these and national positions. There are also many differences between various Commissioners, especially around their jurisdiction and degree of independence.

This presentation will explain the New Zealand model, but also draw on the experience of other countries to contrast how Commissioners play a part in addressing child protection and promoting healthy child development within our countries.

The presenter will identify how it is possible to promote cross-sectoral solutions to child abuse and neglect from the advantage of being an independent office with access to the political, bureaucratic, community based and professional sectors.

A number of examples of advocacy will be provided, highlighting both the opportunities and limitations of such institutions. The presenter will examine these in light of the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child, and identify the role an office such as the Children’s Commissioner plays in respect holding States accountable on the Convention.

Mrs. Priscilla Lui Tsang Sun Kai (Hong Kong SAR, China)

Mrs. Priscilla Lui Tsang Sun Kai has been the administrator in 1979 and the director of the Against Child Abuse, Hong Kong Special Administrative Region, China, since 1983. Priscilla has been involved, in addition to managing the agency and supervising her team, in advocacy of a child’s perspective in the community and ensuring children are seen and heard in policies, practices, resource allocation and education. She works closely with the mass media and serves on the Government Committee on Child Abuse and many NGO committees. Priscilla has conducted different trainings and has contributed to conferences locally and overseas. Special area of concern include the formation of a Child Commission in Hong Kong, the review of child related legislation to ensure the spirit of the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child is being thoroughly actualized, defending the rights of children left unattended and corporal punishment and humiliating management approaches. Priscilla Lui was awarded the Tenth Outstanding Young Persons Award in 1990, the HKSAR Bronze Bauhinia Star Award in 2000, the Award of Outstanding Community Service Leaders in 2001, and the International Society for Prevention of Child Abuse and Neglect (ISPCAN) Distinguished Service Award in 2006. She obtained her Masters in Social Work from the University of Hong Kong in 1982 and her Diploma in Public Health and advocacy for children and young people. She has worked as a social worker, researcher and manager.

Presentation Topic: Is Prevention a Feasible Option in Child Protection?

There is an encouraging body of evidence to support the notion that violence and childhood injuries are preventable. However, it requires the government to exercise a strong leadership in the formulation of forward-looking child policies; to allocate adequate resources ensuring that competent personnel and effective mechanisms are in place and to mobilize the entire community to turn prevention into a feasible option.

It is often observed that Hong Kong with a lopsided emphasis on the creation of wealth and economic prosperity has been acquiring a reactive rather than proactive approach, often times
In order to understand child protection concerns in Mainland China, Hong Kong needs to go beyond a predominantly materialistic emphasis and must seek to improve the quality of life for children and family in a truly holistic sense. It is through the removal of these inhibitive destructive forces or hurdles that a nurturing environment will be provided to the child to grow to his/her full potential.

This presentation will trace the important milestones in child protection, examine the strengths and weaknesses of the child protection strategy in Hong Kong, highlighting the trends, characteristics, achievements attained and hurdles encountered in the last few decades. To ensure a genuine child perspective, the presentation will underscore the need to critically examine certain traditional family values and child rearing practices and to debate the role of legislation in child protection. The author also looks at issues such as the over-emphasis on adult’s rights and lack of genuine consultation in policy formulation which hampers participation and partnership in the community.

It is only when a society is determined to move away from a reactive mentality and devote necessary resources to a strategic and comprehensive plan of action will prevention cease to be a mere slogan and become a viable solution!

His major research area is “Reform of Social Management System and the Development of NGOs: Theory and Application of Social Work Theory. Professor Xu has published more than 70 theses in newspapers and in various formats in China. His most recent publication is “Theory in Community Development”.

Presentation Topic: Insufficient Community Participation: A Sense of Child Protection in Mainland China

In order to understand child protection concerns in Mainland China, one has to review them against the macro background of the transition of the social system and function of the government. Along with the rapid development of the market economy and population mobility, the problem arose of a massive number of children as beggars. Some died as a consequence of abuse, some are being controlled and manipulated by adults or sinister gangsters.

Despite the fact that China has announced improvements in child protection law and regulations, the management of such child begging phenomena has been ineffective. The main reasons behind this situation have been the breaking up of the originally unilateral system and the fact that the pace of the government’s social management function is not catching up with the rapid changes. Furthermore, the maturation of the civic society has also been slow, and the society in itself lacks motivation and organization ability to cope with such changes.

The shortcomings of the current social system are the core of the problem, and the two major factors contributing to such shortcomings are the insufficient social participation and the slow progress in reforming the function of the government. This is a unique challenge of the process of modernization of Mainland China. Therefore, the sustainable development of child protection in Mainland China depends on the reformation of the social system, the social function of the government and the healthy development of non-governmental organizations.

What Have We Learned About Child Abuse in the Past 30 Years?

During the past 30 years there have been literally thousands of studies of child maltreatment published. What do we know now that we did not know in 1977? This presentation will review the state of our knowledge about child maltreatment as ISPCAN began (coincident with the presenter’s first published research on child abuse) and thirty years later.

Important themes in this review include our understanding of definitional issues, matters of causation, and strategies for prevention and intervention.

Congress Presentation:

Dr. Garbarino will also be delivering a presentation at the Congress entitled “Children in Danger: Trauma and Resilience”.

Program Overview

The program will encompass a number of high quality keynote sessions on general topics with an international perspective. The program will also feature high quality symposia, which will give an opportunity for delegates to debate and discuss topics with experts in their field. Other sessions will encompass free papers and workshops that allow practitioners and researchers to report on their clinical practice or research findings.

There will also be interactive discussion presentations where individuals can present in more detail in a less structured environment. Interwoven with these highly academic sessions will be an opportunity for meeting old and new friends, not only over coffee and lunch, but also at social events.

Call for Abstracts

Authors are invited to submit proposals for papers, workshops, symposia, and interactive presentations. Authors are strongly encouraged to submit abstracts online at www.ispcan.org/congress2008. The online abstract submission opened at the above website on 15 June 2007.

Abstract Submission Deadline is 15 February 2008. Abstracts submitted after this date will not be considered.

The Scientific Committee will select submissions for papers, workshops, and interactive presentations and will inform all applicants of the selection process by email by 1 May 2008. The selected abstracts will be finally accepted only after the presenter’s completed registration is received. Presenters are required to pay the congress registration fee.

Presentation Formats

The Scientific Committee reserves the right to make the final determination regarding the presentation format of accepted abstracts.

Papers

The time allocated for oral presentations is 20 minutes (15 minutes for the presentation and 5 minutes for discussion and questions). Please note that the duration of different paper presentations in the Final Program might slightly vary.

Symposia

Each symposium will be composed of three to five related papers. Authors interested in presenting a symposium are requested to submit all related papers as a single abstract, with clear designations of the individuals’ papers and titles (limit 1,500 words). The abstract submission should include all three to five presenters as co-speakers. Symposia should provide as broad a picture of a topic as possible. Space seriously limits the number of symposia which can be accepted.

Workshops

There is an expectation that workshops will be interactive sessions with a focus on skills development or on discussions among participants. The presentation length is 45-60 minutes depending on the level of interaction. Workshops are not didactic presentations and must involve audience participation. Space for Workshops is limited. Submissions for papers are encouraged.

Abstract Submission Instructions

The person submitting the abstract will serve as the main author (the main point of contact for correspondence). It will be assumed that the main author will also deliver a presentation at the Congress.

1. Authors are strongly encouraged to submit abstracts online at www.ispcan.org/congress2008. In exceptional cases, authors may write to congress2008@ispcan.org to request that an abstract form be sent to them by email. However, applicants are advised to make all efforts to submit online. Correspondence will be sent to the main author only, at the email address provided.

2. All authors of accepted abstracts are required to register for the Congress by 1 July 2008. Failure to do this will result in the abstract being excluded from the program. We encourage authors to register by 10 June 2008, in order to take advantage of the Early Bird registration rate.

3. All abstracts will be considered on the basis of individual merit by the Scientific Committee, and will be ranked according to the following criteria:

a. Relevance to the Congress theme, “Towards a Caring and Non-Violent Community: A Child’s Perspective”

b. Relevance to the selected subtheme:
   • Psychological Abuse: Identification, Assessment and Intervention
   • Culturally-relevant, Evidence-based Intervention
   • Child Trafficking, Child Labor, Child Sexual Tourism
   • Domestic Violence and Child Abuse
   • Children’s Voices and Children’s Rights (including Legal Protection of Children).
   • Forms of Neglect (including Institutionalized Children).

c. Importance and relevance of the content to the international audience.

d. Reference to anti-discriminatory issues

e. Reflection of a child’s perspective (if appropriate)

4. Abstracts need to be submitted in English using the English online submission system. Paper and Poster presentations may be delivered in either English or traditional Chinese. The abstract submission should include the language of the presentation. Abstracts should not exceed 300 words. Please select one of the following which best describes the nature of your proposed presentation:

- Report on research study. This should include objectives/purpose, method, results and conclusions (a sample abstract can be found on the Congress website: www.ispcan.org/congress2008).
- Program, technique, policy description (including theoretical basis) with evaluation data
- Program, technique, policy description (including theoretical basis) without evaluation data
- Skills development (list what specific skills are covered in the presentation)

All abstracts should be single spaced, the 12-point Times New Roman font is preferred.
2008 marks the beginning of Against Child Abuse (ACA)’s 30th Anniversary year. From a telephone hotline in a borrowed office, ACA now has two centres with a third one in preparation supported by a small team of dedicated staff but many more devoted volunteers. Services range from primary preventive home visitation programs to individual and group therapeutic work.

ACA remains the only non-government organization in Hong Kong specialised in the removal of all forms of child maltreatment. Experience is regularly shared with professionals locally and overseas. ACA is also a strong advocate for the rights of the child the recognition of which is seen as the basis of child protection. Over the years ACA is pleased to witness the gradual acceptance of child rearing without violence and service users turn service providers.

It is therefore a great pleasure and honour for ACA to co-host the 17th ISPCAN International Congress at the commencement of our series of activities to celebrate three decades of work for and with children and families. ACA’s effort to create a caring and nurturing environment for children to develop and grow and to have a childhood they can enjoy must also have been the effort of many colleagues world-wide. So do make an effort to join us in Hong Kong for this memorable event.

You may check out the information on airlines providing regular service to and from Hong Kong at www.hongkongairport.com/eng/aguide/airline_enquiry.html

Currency/Banks
The Hong Kong Dollar ($) is the official currency of the Hong Kong. Foreign currency can be exchanged at the airports, hotels, banks or exchange offices. The exchange rate at the time of printing is US$1.00 = HK$7.8 (update by using the currency converter at www.xe.com). The most commonly used international credit cards in Hong Kong are VISA, MasterCard and American Express.
Major banks are open from 9am to 4:30pm Monday to Friday, and 9am to 12:30pm on Saturday closing on Sundays and public holidays. Some banks and branches are open slightly longer hours. Some banking services are not available an hour before closing.

Dress
Smart casual attire for all Congress sessions. Traditional/cultural dress is encouraged for the Gala Dinner on Tuesday night, 9 September.

Electricity
The standard electrical voltage in HK is 220 volts AC, 50HZ, so you will need an adapter for your 100-volt appliances and electrical equipment. The majority of electrical outlets in Hong Kong take a three-pronged plug. You can buy an inexpensive adapter for your equipment when you arrive in Hong Kong.

Internet Access
Most hotels have Internet access. You can also access the Internet for free at many coffee shops, large shopping malls, major MTR stations and public libraries in town. For people bringing their laptops to Hong Kong, Wireless Broadband service is common at major shopping malls and coffee shops.
If you use a modem, note that the BT system used in Hong Kong will gradually be replaced by the RJ system. If you are still using the BT plug, you can buy a BT–RJ adaptor in Hong Kong to solve the connection problem. Internet is tentatively planned for delegates at the Exhibition Hall of the Convention Center at additional charge. For more information, please visit the Congress website at www.ispcan.org/congress2008.

Language
English will be the official language of the Congress. Simultaneous interpretation of all plenary sessions and some concurrent sessions into Chinese (Putonghua) will be available.

Letter of Invitation
The Congress Secretariat will be pleased to send an official letter of invitation upon request. It is understood that such an invitation is intended to help potential delegates raise travel funds or obtain a visa. It is not a commitment on the part of the Organizing Committee to provide any financial support. ISPCAN may require additional information from you before issuing a letter of invitation. The decision to issue an invitation letter is at the discretion of ISPCAN. Invitation letters must be requested prior to August 1, 2008. The Congress Secretariat will email, fax and post invitation via the standard mail service. Any express mail requests will require payment of US$40.
Mobile Phones
Delegates are requested to use mobile phones with consideration for others and to ensure that these are switched off during all sessions/social events.

Media
All delegates should be aware that there may be members of the media attending the Congress. Only those specifically delegated can speak on behalf of ISPCAN or ACA. All access to the Congress by members of the media must be agreed in advance with the Press Officer. All journalists will be issued media badges which must be worn. For further information please contact aca@aca.org.hk or congress2008@ispcan.org.

Nationals of most countries are not required to obtain visas and can stay for periods varying from 7 to 180 days, depending on nationality. Please check with any Chinese embassy or consulate for the latest status.

Applications for visas can be made at Chinese Embassies or Consulates in major cities around the world. IT IS IMPORTANT THAT YOU APPLY FOR YOUR VISA WELL IN ADVANCE OF YOUR DEPARTURE DATE (3 months in advance is recommended).

Hong Kong is so compact that getting around is quick and easy. An efficient public transport system – networks of urban underground trains (MTR or Mass Transit Railway) and railways (KCR or Kowloon Canton Railway), numerous routes of trams, buses and ferries – enable visitors to explore Hong Kong conveniently and safely on their own.

Tourist MTR 1-Day Pass is tailored for tourist travel around Hong Kong. Tourists can have any one day of unlimited rides on the Mass Transit Railway (MTR) (except the Airport Express Line) within the ticket validity period.

Airport Express Tourist Octopus “3-Day Hong Kong Transport Pass” is widely accepted by all major transportation services in Hong Kong. The pass not only takes you to/from the airport; it also allows you to travel within the city.

Please refer to p. 15 for more information about transportation in Hong Kong.

Scholarships
Limited scholarships will be awarded to Developing Country (DC) scholars. The deadline for applications will be 15 April 2008. Please visit www.ispcan.org/congress2008 to download an application after January 1, 2008. For more information, please write to events@ispcan.org. Priority will be given to professionals in nearby regions.

Smoking Policy
Smoking is prohibited in most enclosed public places, including restaurants, karaoke, malls and some bars as well as some outdoor areas (public beaches and swimming pools, transport interchanges and outside escalators, etc).

Hong Kong Convention and Exhibition Center is a smoke-free venue. No smoking will be permitted within any of the venues and public circulation areas.

Special Requirements
Any special requirements: dietary, access, accommodation, etc should be noted at the time of booking.

Time Zone
Hong Kong is 8 hours ahead of Greenwich Mean Time.

Tipping
Most restaurants will levy a 10% service charge, but waiters will expect to be given some loose change. Restaurants that don’t add a service charge will expect a 10% tip. However, tipping is left to your discretion. Bellboys, porters, restroom attendants and taxi drivers will happily accept loose change.
